Share Your Perspective on Research & Land Trusts

Land trusts engage with research in many ways, from monitoring to partnerships with universities and agencies.

We're inviting you to share your perspective to help our community better understand how land trusts are currently thinking about and engaging with research.

This short survey (2–3 minutes) asks about:

- How your organization defines and uses research
- Your level of experience working with researchers
- Challenges or barriers you may face
- Questions or information that would support your work

Take the Survey:

Why participate?

- Contribute to a shared understanding across the land trust community
- Help surface common experiences, questions, and perspectives
- Inform ongoing conversations about research and conservation practice

Thank you for sharing your perspective!
